Kenmore Board of Trade July 2010

President's Message

The road to a successful future sometimes helps if you know your history.

The parent organization of the Kenmore Board of Trade is the Akron Boards of Trade Council (ABOTC). There are 6 organizations that make up the ABOTC. They are the East Akron Board of Trade, the North Akron Chamber of Commerce, the South Akron Board of Trade, the Southeast Akron Board of Trade, the West Akron Board of Trade and of course the Kenmore Board of Trade.

The history of the ABOTC dates back to 1867. John F. Seiberling was its first president. There were 24 members at their first meeting, now there are over 700 members in the ABOTC.

The new and improved “Akron Boards of Trade Council 2010 Membership Directory” will be delivered soon. All members will get a copy, and all members are encouraged to support their fellow members by looking for products or services first in the ABOTC 2010 Membership Directory. I was able to get a sneak peek on the Membership Directory and it is AWESOME! Easy to look up local businesses and find services close to home. This is a great book and a great benefit that the Akron Boards of Trade Council offers. Take the time to look it over – I think you will find the book to be a wonderful resource to finding professional services and goods. –Scott Smith
